

Lenni Laukkanen

Founder, Astu Labs

I help leaders succeed in the age of AI — people first.

Hardware, software, and processes can be copied by anyone.

People cannot.

That's why lasting competitive advantage in the age of AI comes from people.

TOPICS

Accelerating Work and the New Meaning of Empathy

The faster information moves and decisions are made, the more essential it becomes for people to genuinely connect with one another.

Trust as the Foundation of Change

What people can accomplish when they believe in each other — and why that is the key to every lasting transformation.

Bringing AI Into Your Organisation Responsibly

A realistic view of the landscape and a risk-aware approach that keeps people's enthusiasm alive throughout the journey.

ABOUT

Runner, cyclist, and adventurer. Lenni Laukkanen is a keynote speaker, advisor, and founder of Astu Labs, helping leaders succeed in the age of AI — people first. His message is that the competitive advantage of the AI era comes not from technology, but from people and a new kind of leadership.
